

WHO WE ARE

The Office for Students in the Care of D.C. (SCDC) works to create a world where every student who comes into contact with the child welfare, juvenile justice and criminal justice system, receives high quality educational and workforce development services and supports that addresses their needs, builds on their strengths and empowers them to succeed.

WHO WE SERVE

The SCDC supports Mayor Muriel Bowser's and the D.C. Council's commitment to serve District of Columbia students who are under the care and custody of any of the following agencies:

- Department of Youth Rehabilitation Services
- Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency
- Pretrial Services Agency for the District of Columbia
- Family Court Social Services Division
- Child and Family Services Agency
- Department of Corrections
- Federal Bureau of Prisons

WHAT WE BELIEVE

- 1- Every child, youth and young adult who comes into contact with the child welfare, juvenile justice or criminal justice system has a right to high quality educational and workforce development services and supports.
- 2- Every child, youth and young adult who comes into contact with the child welfare, juvenile justice or criminal justice system must receive the resources that they need inside and outside of the classroom so that they can learn, gain employment and thrive.
- 3- Every parent, guardian and care giver of a child or youth under the care of the District of Columbia must be able to easily access educational and workforce development services for the student in their care.

WHAT WE DO

The SCDC develops programs, strategies and policies that guide the implementation of the District's policies and programs to improve educational and workforce outcomes for students in the care of the District of Columbia.
